MR. SHERMAN ON PROTECTION

Upholds Policies of Taft Administration.

Vice-President of United States Says
That the Present Prosperous Condition of Country is Due to the High Tariff—Says it Would Be Disastrous
For Democrats to Be in Power—Urged That North Carolina Send Her Share
of Republicans to Congress.

Vice-President of the United States
James Schoolcraft Sherman spoke in the opera house yesterday at noon before three or four hundred people, there being a liberal sprinkling of Democrats in the audience. There were also a number of ladies. He spoke for an hour, devoting himself exclusively to the work of justifying the Republican party for standing by its policies of high protection, by attempting to show that these policies were for the best interests of the people of this country.

In his address Mr. Sherman took occasion to remark upon the cordiality with which he had been received by the Democrats of the State, Governor Kitch-
in being the first man to grasp his hand
on North Carolina soil. And this too, he said, despite the fact that he came as a partisan speaker and not as the Vice-President.

"Sunny Jim" Sherman is well named for as he greets those about him his round face is wreathed with smiles and his good natured side is ever uppermost.
He is always ready to crack a joke while speaking and he kept his audience in the spirits yesterday.

Mr. Sherman arrived in the city early yesterday morning, but did not arise until about 8 o'clock. After breakfast he was taken on a spin around the city,
winding up with a visit to Guilford Battle Ground, being accompanied by Maj.
J. M. Morehead, president of the company, who pointed out the various points of interest on the battlefield. From 11:30 to 12 an informal reception was held in the Guilford Hotel and a number of people called to meet the Vice-President and to welcome him to the city.
After the speech he had dinner at the Guilford and left on a special at 2:30 o'clock for Charlotte, making several brief platform speeches on the way.

The Speech.
The Greensboro band, which had been engaged for the occasion, rendered several selections while the crowd was gathering. Mr. Sherman was applauded as the party upon the stage. Mr. Thomas Settle introduced Mr. Sherman as "one of the highest officers of an administration that more than any in his time,
desires to feature as one of its conspicuous efforts a liberal policy towards "Dixieland." The applause was quite hearty when Mr. Sherman arose.

Mr. Sherman commented on the many empty seats in the house, but comforted
the committee on advertising by stating that when brains and appetite combined the latter will win every time.
He declared that had he been here in 1864 every seat would have been taken for the people had nothing to eat and many were glad to get under shelter.
He said the Democratic party had an opportunity in those days to demonstrate that the low protective tariff was the best, but after four years the American people decided again in favor of the Republican policies.

The basic principle of the Republican party has been to maintain policies, he said, that were favorable to America in preference to other countries and to give the American people better and more regular employment. These were the policies of a majority of the American people and therefore in carrying out the policies as he has been doing during the last two years Mr. Taft is only carrying out the mandates of the people. He said that the people of North Carolina
did not render much assistance in overthrowing the disastrous policies of the Democratic administration in 1896, but,
he added, they voted from force of habit.
It is not a good thing to get in the habit of voting the Democratic ticket and there change your views, he said. He urged the people present to fall in line
and do their part in electing a Republican Congress in order that Mr. Taft might continue to carry out the policies

as in the past.

Referring again to the fact that it was a bad habit to vote for the Democratic ticket Mr. Sherman stated that it was a bad habit to continue to vote any ticket too long. Look over the platform of the several parties with care, ascertain what they mean and what they stand for, he a reasoning common sense man and vote for the party
that you feel will adopt the best policies, continued the speaker. He said that the Democratic party was erroneous in believing that its policies were correct and then gave a number of reasons for so stating. The party platform he declared to be of more importance than the candidate.

Mr. Sherman took occasion to poke fun at W. J. Bryan. He declared that as a man Mr. Bryan was a first class citizen, but he was woefully mistaken
in his conception of the policies best suited for the government. He hoped, he said, that Mr. Bryan would be the Democratic candidate for many years
to come.

Mr. Sherman spoke of the great prosperity of the present time and credit for this state of affairs was laid at the door of the Republican administrations. He said laborers were getting higher wages,
farmers were getting more for their produce than ever before. "What's the use of having everything low when you have no money to buy anything with," he asked. "There is five times as much money now as there was in 1896." He said a return of Democratic rule would be demoralizing to industrial conditions.

The closing argument was a second plea to the North Carolina Republicans and Democrats to unite in electing President Taft in continuing the policies of the Republican party, to the operation of which he attributed the present prosperous condition of the country.

Several times Mr. Sherman was greeted with applause as he used his jokes to illustrate his points. At the conclusion
the applause was quite spirited.

afternoon was spent in playing games
on the lawn. When the tots had played until they were tired they were invited freshments were served. At 5 o'clock the date for the Senate from this county and J. H. Prince, candidate for Sheriff of this county. R. J. Morton, the So-

of friends at her home on West Market

The guests were met at the door by Miss Mary Lindsay Faulkner who presented each with a bell shaped card,
in which was a heart-shaped picture of Miss Ridge and Mr. Stockard, and the

The guests were then ushered into the parlor where they were asked to write good wishes to the bride-to-be in a bride's book presided over by Miss Margerite Halladay.

Forty-two was a pleasing feature of the afternoon, white Chrysanthemums

book was given Miss Ridge, who read the good wishes to the guests.

FOOTBALL GAME WAS A SCREAM

The "Has Beens" Just Too Funny.

Lacked One of Putting a Complete Team
on the Gridiron—They Were Great in Gaining Ground For the High School Team—Richard Harry Does A Sensational Stunt—the Stars Conspicuously Fond of Rest Signals.

The humorous side of football was thoroughly displayed yesterday afternoon at Cone Park when the Greensboro
High School football team met and conquered an eleven chosen from the long-forgotten football element of the city.
Only ten members of this team mustered up enough courage to be on the field
as the other man and four substitutes all decided that since they wished to work today, discretion was the better part of valor and did not even dare to show their faces on the grounds.

This team, which has been officially dubbed as the Stars held the High School team to a score of 12 to 0. The smallness of the score was mainly due to the lack of dash and spirit of the conquerors and adroit-dupis of the conquered. The Stars several times exhibited marvelous power in gaining ground, but unfortunately the gains went to the credit of the High School team. For instance, in the second quarter the score stood nothing to nothing when the Stars were pushed back to their twenty-five yard line where they received the ball and lined up for a punt which would put them out of danger. But at this juncture Richard Harry, occupying the position of centre, gained great prominence—also his release—by passing the ball almost over the bleachers, where it was captured by Bond for a touchdown for the High School. Coffin kicked goal.

One remarkable record was established by the Stars, namely the fact that time was called for only one of them.
But a partial explanation is that it was impossible for them to become winded as whenever the ball came in their possession, it was a signal for rest, which was promptly obliged. And, in still another respect, most of the Stars excelled their opponents. They acquired excellent skill in measuring their lengths on the ground,
in which purpose they were considerably aided by the precision of many well-directed "stiff-arms" from the High School backs. Remarkably successful in this respect were Messrs. Bradshaw and Stafford, who prompted by "stiff-arms" of Grimsley and Coffin, dusted the Gridiron with exact nicety. Nevertheless the game commanded enough dignity to have officials, and all in all,
was hard fought and well worth witnessing. Mr. S. Clay Williams, the High School coach, served as referee; Mr.
W. H. Swift umpire; Mr. Muir, head linesman; and Mr. Morehead, timekeeper. The quarters were ten minutes each, despite the efforts of the exhausted Stars
to bribe the timekeeper to call time.

Individual play, instead of teamwork, featured the work of both sides. For the High School Bond played the best game.
Coffin, Groome, Denny, and Preyer, accomplished a majority of the plays credited to the Stars, to say nothing of the sensational backward pass of thirty yards used first by its originator,
Richard Harry. The line-ups follow:

High School: Foust, center; Fisher,
right tackle; Lindau, left tackle; Mc-Duffie and Murray, right end; Harry,
left end; Marrs, right halfback; Yates,
left halfback; Coffin, (Capt.), quarterback; Grimsley, fullback.
Stars: Groome, quarterback; Taylor,
left guard; Stafford, right guard; Preyer and Bradshaw, left tackle and right halfback, alternately; Harry and Crutchfield, center and right tackle, alternately; Denny, right end; Beuhow,
(Capt.), full back.

WILL SECURE SON'S RELEASE.

Mr. J. W. Norman Goes to Richmond and Will Explain Check Business That Landed R. G. Norman In Lock-up.

Mr. J. W. Norman left last night for Richmond for the purpose of securing the release of Mr. R. G. Norman, who was arrested there some days ago on the charge of passing a check that was valueless. It now appears that the firm on which the check was drawn had money in the bank sufficient to cover it, but Mr. Norman often used the funds of the company quite recklessly and his father had instructed the bank to refuse to honor any draft his son might draw.
The Co-operative Buggy Company, on which the check was drawn, was some time prior to that in financial difficulty, but The Telegram is informed that those troubles were all straightened out. It is understood that Mr. Norman will make the returned check good and settle the costs in the case and young Mr. Norman will be released by the authorities in Richmond.

Worked Slick Game.

Last night someone worked a slick game on Troxler Bros. Going to a residence on Arlington street the party secured leave to use the phone and called up Troxler Bros., stating that he wanted some groceries. It was agreed that he should pay the delivery boy for the groceries. However, the party wanted something else and the boy went back after it. While he was gone the articles carried on the first trip were taken.
Messrs. Troxler are out something like $10 and there is no clue as to the guilty party.

BUTLER WANTS AN INVITATION

To Come Back Into Democratic Fold.

Said In Speech at High Point Last Night That Democrats Yelled "Nigger"
at Him Instead of Offering Inducements to Join Forces—Said Democrats Were Afraid to Meet Him On Stump Because of Record—Local Self Government.

High Point, Oct. 27.—Before a crowd of about five hundred citizens, a number of whom were Democrats attracted through curiosity, Marion Butler spoke for fully two hours tonight. The whole trend of the speech was an effort to blacklist the Democratic party and enthroned the Republican party in the minds of his audience. The speaker freely used his stock of gestures, but he was woefully short on jokes. However, he partly made up for this by sarcastic references to certain deeds he charged the Democrats with doing. He often created laughter, but only once or twice did he receive applause and it was rather weak.

Seated on the stage with Mr. Butler were Messrs. J. Elwood Cox, J. G. Frazier, Hiram Worth and W. P. Ragan.

Mr. Butler undertook to explain the "local self government" plank in the Republican platform, but when he concluded his hearers were in the same condition as he said he was regarding the Democratic platform. Mr. Butler said he had studied the Democratic platform for months and could not find heads or tails.
It was about the same way with his ex-platform after he had devoted nearly half an hour to the subject.

Mr. Butler said that the Democrats were afraid to meet him on the stump because they knew he would tell the truth and open their record in such a way that the truths he would state could not be denied. So the Democrats are appealing to the passion and prejudice of the people and trying to keep them from reading what is said about their record, said Mr. Butler. They are trying to keep decent Democrats from hearing what as mean a man as "Mary Ann" has to say, but are going around yelling "bonds, boodle, booze and nigger."
He said the Republican party could look back and point with pride to its achievements and ask one to look onward and upward, while the Democrats could only refer to a mass of unkept promises.

Mr. Butler said it had been a struggle for him to leave the Democratic fold and now no one would offer him an inducement to return. Every time he tried to get an invitation to come back his hearers yelled "nigger." There are many good Democrats left, but they are fast becoming Republicans. He urged everybody to be patriotic and come into the Republican party and help save the State.

A good portion of his time was devoted to ridiculing the present administration for failing to live up to its promises. The Republican party always lived up to its promises, he said. He then compared the State platforms of the two parties. The Democratic platform is, he said, meaningless, while the Republican platform is full of living truths
and great promises.

Taking up the local self-government
plank he said it stood for a great principle for which our forefathers fought, the right of the people to rule. The Democrats have robbed the people of this right and we mean to restore it, he said.
The Democrats are trying to take your liberties away from you and the Republican party will prevent this if it can. They have already taken some of our liberties from us, he continued.

Mr. Butler then charged that the Democratic administration takes nearly half the school fund and uses it for political purposes. A party that would put its finger into such a sacred fund as that is not safe to be put in power, he declared.
The speaker then told of the great things
the Republican party has done for education and what it proposes to do in the future.

Better come quick and get a good heater before they are all gone. Murphy Bros. Remember they are closing

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, finding it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

PLAYGROUNDS

Charlotte Chronicle.

In Greensboro, a number of women have organized a Playground and Kindergarten Association. In speaking of the movement, The Telegram says: "The whole world is waking up on the playground question of civic duty. The movement is international and if the children of the future are not the healthiest, happiest and most perfectly developed, physically, mentally and morally, in the world's history, it will be the fault of the raw material and not of the earnest unselfish workers in this broad and inviting field. That there are many of these in Greensboro is evidenced by the enthusiasm shown on every side and the cordial support promised by everyone who has been approached." It is a pleasure to note that the playground movement is spreading to the South. One of these days we hope to see the civic section of the Woman's Club of Charlotte add this feature to its line of activities. Meanwhile the Greensboro women should be given all the encouragement in the work they have undertaken.

The Gaelic A B C. Every letter in the Gaelic alphabet is represented by a tree. The alphabet of today consists of eighteen letters—in ancient Gaelic seventeen—and now, as of old, all the letters with the exception of g, t and u, which stand for ivy, furze and heather, are called after trees.

The Gaelic A B C of today runs: Ailm, beire, coll, dur, eagh, fearn, gath, huath, iogh, luis, muin, nuin, olv, peith, ruis, sùil, teine, ur, which is equivalent to saying elm, birch, hazel, oak, aspen, alder, ivy, whitethorn, lew, rowan or quicken, vine, ash, spindle tree, pine, elder, willow, furze, heath.

In the ancient Gaelic alphabet the letter h (the heath or whitethorn) does not exist. The alphabet is called the beith-luis-nuin, because b l n and not a b c are its first three letters.

COLONIAL VIRGINIA.

The Haughty Planters Were Fierce Foes of Royal Tyranny.

In no part of the world were social distinctions more rigidly defined than in colonial Virginia. The founders of that colony stepped from the brilliant court of Elizabeth into the forests of Virginia. The lord-proprietor transported to his estate a little army of gentlemen and indentured servants, and afterward came the negro slave. Each formed a class apart from the others, and almost at once there was created a quasi system of aristocracy.

The proprietor obligated himself to protect his tenants from the Indians. They in turn agreed to follow him to battle, precisely the system inaugurated by William the Conqueror for the military defense of his realm. His environment naturally bred certain habits of command, fostered a capacity for directing the efforts of others and imposed a sense of responsibility upon the planter for the lives that were in his keeping.

Above all else the planter jealously guarded his rights as an English freeman. When liberty languished in England the Virginian sturdily resisted every aggression of royal tyrants. One husband, one wife, one home, one king, one God—this was the planter's creed. But he reserved the right to renounce a monarch who violated the ancient compact between king and people. No other people numerically as unimportant as that group of Virginia settlers has given to humanity so many statesmen, soldiers, orators, patriots and philosophers.—Everybody's Magazine.

Reaching the Top

In any calling of life, demands a vigorous body and a keen brain. Without health there is no success. But Electric Bitters is the greatest Health Builder the world has ever known. It compels perfect action of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, purifies and enriches the blood, tones and invigorates the whole system and enables you to stand the wear and tear of your daily work. The Waiter With Two Cars.

A Cleveland party recently sojourning in a Toronto hotel decided to take an automobile ride about the city. They approached the extremely self-conscious clerk and asked him where they could secure a car.

"Our head waiters has two, don't y' know," he replied.

It took some little time to recover from this shock, but presently one of the party ventured to ask the price.

"Three an hour," was the answer.

That was voted satisfactory, and at luncheon one of the Clevelanders turned to the nearest waiter.

"Who is the chap that owns two automobiles?" he asked.

"I am the chap," the waiter replied, and he threw such a frowning emphasis into the word "chap" that it was fairly frost-caked.

They finished their luncheon before they had enough courage to ask the price.

"Four dollars an hour," the waiter replied with haughty indifference.

Then they went uptown and hired a very good car for $3 an hour.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"It Beats All."

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first dose gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. COURTESIES AT SEA.

Dipping the Flag Ranks Before the Booming of the Guns.

In the days before cannon and indeed until comparatively recent times a vessel made its salutation by lowering or "dipping" its flag. This is the oldest and most honorable greeting which a ship can give. It ranks before the booming of guns, however many.

This salute has always been demanded by English speaking seamen, and its exaction has burned the hearts and the powder of generations of naval commanders. For a foreign ship, whether merchant or martial, to enter an English port without velling topsails or dipping its national flag was to court the chances of war, although the profoundest peace existed. Without warning or argument the shore defenses or a man-of-war would send a round of shot across the bows or between the masts of the insolent intruder, and if the offending flag came not down instantly the foreigner was brought to her senses by being raked through and through. Such was the reception accorded by Sir John Hawkins in the sixteenth century to the Spanish admiral who in time of peace sailed into Portsmouth sound without velling his topsails or lowering his flag.

Salutes are essential matters of naval etiquette and are exchanged under an elaborate code arranged between the powers. The number of guns to be fired under all conceivable circumstances is minutely stipulated.—New York Press.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.

A Drink From the Well That Was Not Appreciated.

The girl accepted the glass of ice water with a fervor in her words that went away beyond the manner of ordinary politeness.

"Yes," she confessed, "I am deeply grateful. You don't know what a blessing it is to be able to get a drink out of a refrigerator—just open the door and take it out. You see, I've been visiting at one of those houses in the country where the poetic old oaken bucket still is on the job. Every time I wanted a drink I had to get a knife and a weight and a rope and a bucket and a cup. I dug the lid of the well up with the knife. Then I adjusted the weight on one side of the bucket so it would tip over and take in water when it hit the bottom. Then I drew up the bucket, took a cupful of water, coiled the rope, shut down the lid and put the knife away again. All that for just one little drink!"

"Once we went out driving. We found one well where we couldn't get the lid up. We found another where the rope was too short. I was just dying for a drink by that time, so one of the boys held another upside down in the well—by the legs, you know—and we dipped out a drink that way. Thank you, I'm very comfortable where I am. No oaken buckets for me, except in songs."—Kansas City Star.

Saving Time.

"How much is that?" asked the man who was in a hurry.

"Dollar ninety-eight," replied the saleslady.

"Would you mind calling it $2 even?" "I'm sorry, but it's against the rules."

"Would you consent as a favor to retain the change?"

"Certainly not! I do not receive tips."

He turned sadly away. Then a bright idea struck him. He went to the door, called a passing newsboy and took him to the counter. He reached for the article desired and regardless of protest shoved it into his pocket. Laying down a two dollar bill, he said to the newsboy:

"Now, son, you wait for that 2 cents change, no matter how long it takes, and here's half a dollar for your trouble."—Washington Star.

Russian Peasant Weddings.

A peasant wedding in Russia means a festival for the whole village and often for the young people from neighboring villages as well. Weeks before the eventful day the young girls assemble at the home of the bride to help her sew. The bridegroom comes with his men friends to treat them to nuts and sweets. Appropriate songs are sung, and the bridegroom's generosity is put to the test. One of the girls holds out to him a plate, and if he puts down a silver coin they sing him a song full of compliments, but if he gives copper and is known to be able to afford more mockery follows. The whole village is invited to the marriage ceremony, which is performed with all the ancient superstitious rites and solemnities.

Retribution.

"You are charged with allowing your family only 15 cents a day for sustenance."

"That's all I do allow, your honor, and it is enough."

"Enough to feed a wife and six children?"

"So I contend."

"Five hundred dollars for contempt. Nobody can call this court a fool and get away with it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Not For His Business.

"But they say," remarked the patron, "he has a good head for business."

"Nonsense!" replied the barber. "Why, he's absolutely bald."—Philadelphia Press.

The President, it is announced, has decided to appoint a negro an assistant attorney-general. That will not help the G. O. P. in the South.

Gonnie Mack, manager of the world's baseball champions, is also engaged, so a late press dispatch says. Mack is doubtless pretty nearly, if not quite, the world's champion happy man.

The Raleigh News and Observer calls on Morehead to drop Butler. He ought to, of course, but we have an idea that the Republican chairman lacks the necessary courage.

Mr. Butler not only proposed to collect the "repudiated bonds of every class," he also tried to get a "cinch" on them by saying that no one but his particular syndicate could collect them.

We must say that we did not expect to find the Vice-President quite so oleaginous. But having seen and what is more having heard him, one can better understand his reputation for smoothness as a politician.

Standpatters McKinlay and Sherman have come and gone and everybody is standing pat save a good sized bunch of Republicans who are going to be progressive enough to vote a rebuke to the present Republican regime.

E. J. Powers, a former Wilmington man, fails at Marietta, Ga., for $400,000. Assets, his clothing and some worthless stock. You don't have to go to Wall Street every time for specimens of frenzied financiers.

Yesterday at noon a typical standpat Republican speech. Last night a Socialist rally. The arrangement was very appropriate. Socialism follows standpat Republicanism in the relation of effect to cause.

The King of Italy has a deal of sympathizing to do. A year or so ago, the great earthquake in Messina demanded his presence among a sorely stricken people. This week the fearful storm in the vicinity of Naples made it necessary for the kind-hearted king again to go his rounds of mercy and good cheer.

Mark Twain left a fortune of $600,000. But if he hadn't won the friendship and advice of the financial magnate, H. H. Rogers, he would probably have died in very moderate circumstances. A very gifted man, he, as a matter of course it might be said, did not have the money-making instinct.

We believe that the miscreant man who assumes to direct the public affairs of the greatest nation on earth without responsibility, without candor and without courtesy is nearing the judgment.—New York World.

Indeed it looks now as if Roosevelt will get a stinging rebuke in November. With all the Democrats and a considerable part of the Republicans against him, it is hard to see how he can expect to save his political bacon.

The Raleigh News and Observer yesterday carried an item that was a knockout blow for the Hon. Marion Butler. It was the following advertisement which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post in April 1905:

THE COLLECTION

State Bonds Repudiated in Whole or in Part.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, entitled "South Dakota vs. North Carolina," wherein the former State secured judgment against the latter on ten bonds, par value, $10,000, amounting with interest to $27,400 (which has just been paid) has greatly enhanced the value of all other repudiated State bonds, because it has established the law and the procedure by which they can be enforced.

The undersigned committee, in 1901 pooled all of one issue of North Carolina bonds and originated the plan by which the above successful results were brought about, and obtained a settlement for the individual bondholders, at a little less than par, of their entire holdings of these bonds.

This committee is now ready to proceed with the collection of all other repudiated bonds of every class, of each State.

This committee has no connection with any other committee, and it knows that it alone is now in a position to avail itself of the benefits of the above mentioned decision.

Those who desire to enforce the collection of their bonds will deposit the same with the North American Trust Company, 195 Broadway, New York City, and receive receipts therefor and a contract agreement under which the undersigned committee will undertake to collect the same.

Wheeler H. Peckham, Counsel.

This should be "enough said" with every right thinking North Carolinian. The advertisement showed that Butler was at that time willing to undertake to collect all classes of repudiated bonds. The fact that at this time he says that he never contemplated aiding in the collection of the "scalawag bonds" only serves to add to his misdeeds. The News and Observer has nailed him at last. And if he doesn't now give up his contention that he has acted decently by the State, his gall is indeed passing belief.

VISIT OF THE LAST CONFEDERATE.

Danbury Reporter

At two places in the county this week—King and Dillard—Major Chas. M. Stedman spoke to large crowds. The Reporter was not present at either place, much to its regret. Those who heard the Major tell us that he is a true orator, and that his address is one that first appeals to the reason and then reaches the heart of every listener. An informant states that if Major Stedman would give us ten speeches in Stokes he would carry the county, without a doubt.

There are few persons who can know the Last of the Confederates and then deliberately vote against him. His life is so pure and unselfish that he wins you over. No man has ever brought reproach against the character of this old soldier. When he goes to Washington he will wield an influence among the lawmakers that will be of immense benefit to the people whom he will represent.

He will be respected for his wisdom, admired for his granite integrity, and loved by all for his deep sympathies and his human kindness. He will stand there four-square as the true representative of a great people—unfearing in the face of powerful opposition, unflinching when the weight of the big interests is felt by weaker colleagues, and unpurchasable by the insinuating, predatory corporations. Not only every ex-Confederate soldier who sacrificed and suffered with Stedman on the battlefields of Northern Virginia, should be willing that North Carolina should have at least one ex-Confederate in Congress, thus relieving a situation that imputes to us ingratitude; not only every honest Republican who recognizes true worth and ability, should vote for Stedman for Congress; but every citizen of Stokes county without regard to party must see in Major Stedman one of those kind the country folk needs to claim as their friend in these days when the power of money in the hands of unfeeling interests is bearing down hard on the common classes, and we all realize that the making of the King of Italy has a deal of sympathizing to do. A year or so ago, the great earthquake in Messina demanded his presence among a sorely stricken people. This week the fearful storm in the vicinity of Naples made it necessary for the kind-hearted king again to go his rounds of mercy and good cheer.

Mark Twain left a fortune of $600,000. But if he hadn't won the friendship and advice of the financial magnate, H. H. Rogers, he would probably have died in very moderate circumstances. A very gifted man, he, as a matter of course it might be said, did not have the money-making instinct.

We believe that the miscreant man who assumes to direct the public affairs of the greatest nation on earth without responsibility, without candor and without courtesy is nearing the judgment.—New York World.

Indeed it looks now as if Roosevelt will get a stinging rebuke in November. With all the Democrats and a considerable part of the Republicans against him, it is hard to see how he can expect to save his political bacon.

The Raleigh News and Observer yesterday carried an item that was a knockout blow for the Hon. Marion Butler. It was the following advertisement which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post in April 1905:

State Bonds Repudiated in Whole or in Part.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, entitled "South Dakota vs. North Carolina," wherein the former State secured judgment against the latter on ten bonds, par value, $10,000, amounting with interest to $27,400 (which has just been paid) has greatly enhanced the value of laws must be entrusted not only to men of efficient intellect, but to men whose hearts are right.

Hold the life for the Last Confederate.

Three of a Kind.

Duprez, the great but ill favored French tenor, was once walking from the Grand Opera House in Paris with the baritone Barolhet, who was not an Apollo either. They happened to meet Perrot, the dancer, a man of very great ability, but short and thin and so ugly that a manager once said he could never engage Perrot unless for the Jardin des Plantes (zoological gardens), as he engaged no monkey.

Perrot told them the story, and when Duprez laughed at him Perrot said: "Why, surely you need not laugh. If I am ugly I am certainly not so ugly as either of you."

"You monkey," said Duprez, "this difference shall soon be settled." And, seeing a stranger pass who appeared to be a gentleman, "Monsieur," said he, "will you be so good as to arbitrate in a little difference of opinion between us?"

"With pleasure," said the stranger, "if I can."

"Well," said Duprez, "just look at us and say whom you consider to be the ugliest of the three."

The gentleman looked for some time from one to the other and then said, "Gentlemen, I give it up; I cannot possibly decide," and went away roaring with laughter.

Better Late Than Not at All.

The pastor of the little country church had been much annoyed by having the members of his congregation straggle in long after the service had begun. One Sunday morning, when he felt that further forbearance with this fault was impossible, he decided to rebuke some conspicuous offender. About twenty minutes later than the proper hour there entered a mild mannered little woman, one of the regular attendants of the church, but quite incorrigible in her tardiness. The minister looked up, fixed her with his spectacles and remarked:

"Sister, you are very much behind time. I hope you will not be so late in getting into heaven."

The little woman looked up, smiled sweetly and without a trace of confusion replied placidly:

"I shan't care about that, doctor, so long as I get there."

And now the pastor feels that the smile that went round the church somehow spoiled the effectiveness of his reprimand.—New York Tribune.

Chinese and the Morse Code. Difficulties of the Chinese language were ably demonstrated when the problem arose of adapting it to telegraphy. How was it possible to apply the Morse alphabet to a language which has no alphabet at all, but consists of nearly 44,000 characters? Then it was impossible to treat Chinese phonetically, writing down the sound of the Chinese words in European letters and translating them into Morse dots and dashes, because no such system could deal with the Chinese niceties of intonation. The ingenious solution came from a Danish professor. He simply codified the 7,000 commonest Chinese characters, representing each by numerals. Thus the Chinese word for "cash" became 6030 in the code, and the operator had only to send the code signal for that.

Rachel's Union. I was amused by the observations of a retired actress who sat beside me at the Conservatoire examinations and in an undertone thought aloud as the recitations went on.

"Why so much weeping and wringing of the hands?" she said of a candidate attempting Andromache. "How she spoils her nice young face in attempting to force tears from her eyes! At this distance nobody could scent an onion in her pocket handkerchief. Rachel resorted to that trick in 'Adrienne Lecouvreur,' and the tears flowed freely without facial contortions. I heard it said that as she left the stage she gave the onion she held to Prince Napoleon to eat in salad and that he did so."—Paris Letter to London Truth.

Robbed of Her Happiness.
"You are not looking well, Mrs. Wilkington."
"No, I haven't slept well lately."
"What's the trouble? Has the weather affected you?"
"Oh, no, it isn't that."
"I'll tell you what it is. You ought to give up the practice of drinking coffee at night. I know a lot of people who toss awake all night after they have been out to a late dinner and finished with coffee. I had to quit it myself."
"I'm sure that isn't the cause of my trouble."
"Have you seen a doctor?"
"No. A doctor couldn't help me any."
"But how can you tell until you go to one and let him examine you?"
"Well, if you must know, I'm worrying about my husband. He hasn't kicked at the size of the bills lately, and he's been so kind and even tempered right along for a month or two that I feel almost sure he must be leading a double life. Ah, if he would only get to grumbling and making it disagreeable around the house again!"
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Promptness Unappreciated.

The Curious Mistletoe.
The story of how the mistletoe gets on the trees is a most interesting one. Covering the mistletoe twigs are pearly white berries. These come in the winter season, when food is comparatively scarce, and hence some birds eat them freely. Now, when a robin eats a cherry he swallows simply the meat and slips the stone away. The seed of the mistletoe the bird cannot flip. It is sticky and holds to his bill. His only resource is to wipe it off, and he does so, leaving it sticking to the branches of the tree on which he is sitting at the time. This seed sprouts after a time, and not finding earth—which, indeed, its ancestral habit has made it cease wanting—it sinks its roots into the bark of the tree and hunts there for the pipes that carry the sap. Now, the sap in the bark is the very richest in the tree, far richer than that in the wood, and the mistletoe gets from its host the choicest of food. With a strange foresight it does not throw its leaves away, as do most parasites, but keeps them to use in winter, when the tree is leafless.

Already Planned.
There were few persons who knew the Locke family even in a casual way who had not discovered that Mrs. Locke was in the habit of nagging her husband and children. She loved them dearly, but at times nobody would have surmised it.

"What did Mr. Locke say when he found himself safe after those hours of danger?" some one asked a friend who had been in company with Mr. Locke on an ocean steamer which met with an accident in mid-Atlantic. "He never says the ordinary thing."

"No," said the friend, with a dry smile. "He didn't that time. I said to him, 'James, we ought to make something more of our lives from having them spared to us in this way,' for I had felt pretty solemn. I can tell you, I've no doubt James did, too, but what he said was, 'William, a good share of the rest of my life will be spent in explaining to Theodora how I happened to choose that steamer when there were dozens of others that reached home without any accident.'"—Youth's Companion.

The Long Spoon.
"Tomkyns" recently heard the expression "If you sup with the devil you will need a long spoon." "Though I never heard it before," he says, "it is evidently fairly well known, and what I should like to know is, What does it mean, and where does it come from?"

It means that if you are going to sit down to a meal with his Satanic majesty you will need a long spoon to avoid the necessity of getting too near the old gentleman and, in its general sense, of course, it implies that if you have dealings with a dangerous or notorious person it behooves you to use great caution. It comes from one of the "Ingoldsby Legends," and the quotation reads:
Who suppes with the Devil sholde have a long spoon.

—London Answers.

A Queer Diagnosis.
A celebrated Dublin physician was Sir Dominic Corrigan, who was as much famed for his brusqueness toward patients as for his skill. In the course of some reminiscences William Charles Scully told a story of the doctor which is quite well worth quoting. "I was taken to see him," says the writer, "several times, but he always treated me with the utmost kindness. However, a highly respectable maiden aunt of mine had a different experience. She went to consult him. After sounding her—none too gently—and asking a few questions he gave a grunt and relapsed into silence. Then after a short pause of meditation he said, 'Well, ma'am, it's one of two things—either you drink or else you sit with your back to the fire.'"

The Turkish Doctors' Oath.
In Turkey they have a Hippocratic oath, though they do not call it by that name. It is given in 'Al-Kulliyeh, the magazine published by the Syrian Protestant college in Beirut. To each of the graduates in medicine the oath was administered by the Turkish head of the medical examining board. We cite a few of the pledges:

"That when I am called at the same time by two different patients, the one rich and the other poor, I will accept the call of the poor without taking into consideration the money offered and will do my best for his treatment, and that I will never decline to answer any call, day or night, during the reign of common diseases or of an epidemic or of contagious diseases."

"That I will not ask extra fees from the patients and will not act against my conscience by exaggerating their sickness in order to get the calling fees."

Modern Bookmaking.
A large bindery may have a capacity of 10,000 books a day. The resources of some of these binderies are wonderful. There is an instance on record where a publishing house took an order on Monday for a cloth covered 12mo. volume of 350 pages and actually shipped 2,000 copies of the book on the following Wednesday. The type was set by machinery for the entire 350 pages before work stopped Monday night. Electrotypes were made so rapidly that on Tuesday morning several printing presses were set in motion. In the meantime covers were made in the bindery, and by Wednesday morning the binders had the book in hand. Two thousand volumes were completed that day, and the edition of 10,000 was entirely out of the way before Saturday night. In modern bookbinding machinery, as in the production of printing presses, America leads the world.—Philadelphia North American.

Women Prisoners in Japan.
The cells in every Japanese prison are practically sleeping dormitories, as the prisoners are engaged in the work sheds all day or attending lectures and lessons in educational subjects, deportment and morality. The small Japanese woman prisoner is even taught how to serve tea properly, because the Japanese have grasped the fundamental truth that whatever raises a woman's self respect helps to eliminate bad habits—in a word, to reform her. The keen zest of the prisoners in Japan contrasts with the hopeless, hunted look of our women prisoners in England. In Japan the women prisoners are learning, learning, learning all the time. They are given prizes and decorative rewards for excellence. They are being encouraged instead of repressed. Everything is done to instill a real desire for permanent reform.—London Express.

FOUR PER CENT. PAID ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS.—FOUR PER CENT.
THE DIFFERENCE

between a dollar saved and a dollar spent is just two dollars. Did it ever occur to you that way? It's worth thinking about.
Another difference is the feeling you have afterward. The dollar saved gives you a feeling of real pleasure—it may call for a little sacrifice for the time being, but afterward you feel better for having denied yourself and the dollar is still yours. That is the nice thing about having money in the bank—you have saved it—it is still yours—you can have it when you wish.
We make it a part of our business to urge you to have a bank account at this bank, for it not only helps our business but yours more so.

Had a Better Story.

"Did you see the account of that flash of lightning that burned the hair from a boy's head without otherwise hurting him?"

"I did," answered the cheerful liar, "and I was pained to note the incompleteness of the story. Now, I happen to know of a case that is really remarkable. The lightning entered a barber's shop and not only undertook the task of singeing a man's hair, but it rung up the proper amount on the cash register."

Fear of Revenge.

"Why are you crying, my little man?"

"Cos I don't want to go to school."

"But why not?"

"Cos sister jilted the schoolmaster last night!"—London Opinion.

A SHREWD SHOPPER.

The Little Play by Which She Won Attentive Service.

"Chicago people certainly have the knack of getting on," a shopper said. "In the suit department of a big store I met a Chicago woman who had been in New York less than a week. She said she wasn't buying anything; had just come to get the lay of the land. In the process of getting it she stopped a cashgirl and said:

"Is that Miss Blake selling white linen skirts to that fat woman? I understand you have a Miss Blake in the department."

"No; that is Miss Barton," said the cashgirl.

"The Chicago woman wrote the name in her address book. Then she showed me the names of saleswomen in several other stores."

"This is only a preliminary to real shopping," she said. "It pays to take the extra trouble. If I expect to buy more than $5 worth of anything at a strange store I learn beforehand the name of the saleswoman whose looks I like best. Then when I go back to buy I can say, as I shall do here to-morrow, 'I would like Miss Barton to wait on me,' and, although Miss Barton has never set eyes on me, the fact that I can call her name gives her the impression that she must have sold me a $100 dress at some time, and I get twice as good service as I would get if I knew nobody by name."—New York Sun.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I had severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self." Sold by Howard Gardner.

Ingratitude.

"You remember that guy, Jim Burke?" asked an irate Bowery denizen. "He's that stiff dat doin' time up der river—Sing Sing—boigary—ten years. Well, you know all I done fer dat stiff. When he was pinched didn't I put up der coin fer der lawyers? Didn't I pay der witnesses? Sure I did. De oder day I tinks I'll just go an' see dat mutt just t' leave him know his friend's ain't tied de can on 'im. So I drives out to de jail an' goes into de warden's office, an' he says I got er send me card in. Me card! Dey get dat? Well, anyway, I writes me name on a piece o' paper, an' a guy takes it in to Jim Burke, an' what d' you tink dat stiff tells dat guy to tell me?" "I've no idea," said the listener. "He tells him," concluded the angry one. "t' tell me dat he ain't in!"—Success Magazine.

Women in a Sailboat.

There is just one place on a sailboat for women. That is the cockpit. Remember that and keep them there, even if it takes a somewhat pointed request. The average woman on a boat is not happy unless she is taking risks by sitting out on deck or on top of the cabin or going forward of the mast. Warn her and she laughs at you. She does not know that she is endangering herself. Less than a year ago I saw two women knocked overboard in a heavy sea because they insisted on sitting on top of the cabin despite the protests of the man who was sailing the boat. He himself was a greenhorn and let his boat jibe, the boom clearing the top of the cabin before any one could say Jack Robinson.—Outing.

SALVATIONISTS IN COUNCIL.

Staff Officers of the American Army Begin Annual Session.

Philadelphia Record.
Inaugurating its sixteenth annual council yesterday, about 200 staff officers of the American Salvation Army assembled at the Sunday Breakfast Association Hall, Twelfth street above Race, and began a three days' session. General James W. Duffin was in command of the services, and delivered the main address of the afternoon. With a brass band and a score of tambourine players, together with a chorus of 50 uniformed staff officers, the capacious platform was filled to overflowing. The jubilee exercises began at 2 p. m. and continued with only brief intermission until late in the evening.

Among the speakers at the evening rally were Colonel H. P. Galloway, of Chicago; Staff Captains Loveland, of Kansas City; Wade, of Reading, and Pekin, from Dallas, Tex. A feature of the service was the performance of the four-year-old son of Secretary Foster, who marched about the stage beating a tiny drum. Many testimonies of conversation were given at the evening session and reports received from the stations in different parts of the country, of which there are now 260. Captain John Osborn, of Coatesville, also gave a spirited exhortation. Most of the day was given over to routine business, and there will be sessions today and tomorrow.

General Duffin will lead the annual parade tomorrow, which will be formed along Twelfth, Market, Sixth, Chestnut and Thirteenth streets, back to the headquarters. The army will move by companies, and there will be several bands. Colonel George A. Cider will be chief of staff.

Her Only Criticism.

Little Dorothy not only liked her tea and coffee to have the appearance of being "real and truly," but she also liked to taste the flavor of each. One afternoon her mother took her to a friend's home where tea was served at 5 o'clock.

The hostess gave to Dorothy what she usually gave to her own children, of Dorothy's age, in the line of liquid refreshment—viz. hot water, sugar and milk. Dorothy tasted hers politely and ate her little cakes.

"Why, Dorothy, you aren't drinking your tea, dear. Isn't it sweet enough?" asked the hostess.

"Yes, Mrs. C., it's sweet enough," replied the child.

"Then why aren't you taking it?"

"It's too dull," she replied.—New York Times.

An Honest Statement about an Honest Shoe

The Craddock Shoe will wear 30 days longer than any other man's shoe sold at the same price

WHEN a manufacturer can come out flatly like the above, it means something more than mere words—a pretty phrase to catch the attention. We personally know that this statement is based upon a knowledge that better materials are used in the Craddock Shoe than in any other shoe to retail at the same price. You need no written guarantee, as the materials used in the shoe speak for themselves, and you can tell by looking at the Craddock Shoe that it will wear longer than any other shoe sold at the same price. Craddock styles will sell Craddock Shoes anywhere, but Craddock service makes them still more desirable. Come in and let your eyes tell you the truth of our assertion. Come in and let your feet learn the comfort of a perfect pair of shoes. The Craddock line for Fall is the most complete line ever shown in this city.

Enjoyable Social Event.

The home of Miss Janey Mitchell, Church street, was the scene of a most enjoyable pre-Halloween meet last evening. A number of the younger set gathered to keep and perform with her those weird witcheries peculiar to the occasion. After Dame Fortune had happily mated the guests they were invited to a large bonfire, round which they stayed till a late hour, roasting apples and nuts, toasting marshmallows and enjoying themselves as one well might, at the hand of such a charming hostess. The guests departed at a late hour, voting this occasion one long to be remembered in the social annals of their set.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.

Two Cases Disposed of in Superior Court Yesterday—Trial In Progress.

In Guilford Superior court yesterday the jury in the case of R. A. Wheeler vs. C. M. Martin returned a verdict awarding the plaintiff the sum of $425 as damages. The jury in the case of C. S. Spencer vs. Arthur Blair returned a verdict awarding the plaintiff the sum of $9.

The case of A. V. Sapp vs. H. A. Moffitt was taken up during the afternoon and was not concluded when court adjourned for the day. The plaintiff is seeking to recover damages on account of a breach of contract.

Some people have such taking ways that they leave little to be desired.

The Symbolism Didn't Appeal. "Charlie," sorrowfully sighed the young lady in the parlor of the concrete house on Washington avenue, "it is nearly 12 o'clock."

"Yes, Belinda," was the breathing response of her poetical companion, who was sitting on the sofa beside her, "the minute hand is drawing closer to the hour hand and when the time of midnight is chimed the two hands will be even as one. Oh, darling Belinda," he continued as he literally simulated the action of the minute hand, "may not the coming together of those two hands be symbolic of us?"

She broke away and stood firmly on her feet. "No, Charles Henry Smith," she retorted angrily, "those two hands will remain as one but a single second, and then the minute hand will divorce itself and go on its way alone. No, Mr. Smith, a minute hand that doesn't stick isn't the kind of symbolism I want!"—Chicago News.

Dividing a Long Sermon.

Dr. Samuel Buell of the last half of the eighteenth century, who used to preach two or three hours, like Isaac Barrows, was ingenious in detaining his congregation. On one occasion, after preaching nearly two hours—as long as he could feel secure in the presence of all his hearers—he remarked that he was done preaching to sinners and that they were at liberty to go; the rest of his discourse would be addressed to good people.

A gentleman who once went to hear him stated that when the hourglass was nearly ready to be turned a second time from the commencement of his sermon he said, much to the relief of the person who related it, "Once more." After going on some eight or ten minutes longer he said, "To conclude," and after another about equal interval he said, "Lastly."

The gentleman added that he expected every moment to hear him say "Everlastingly."

He Came Down Light.

A Chicago board of trade man who was not in the habit of attending church was taking a walk one Sunday morning, and on coming to a church at the regular hour of service he decided to go in. As he entered the auditorium in which the pews were adjusted upon a sloping floor an usher stepped forward and, wishing to consult him as to location before conducting him to a sitting, politely inquired:

"Would you like to come down pretty well?"

Mistaking the inquiry to be an appeal for money, the board of trade man began to fumble through his pockets as he drawled:

"I'd like to, but I'm not prepared to come down very heavy, as 15 cents is all I have with me."—Harper's Magazine.

A Varnishing Tip.

When varnishing wood the work must be done in a warm room at a temperature of at least 75 degrees F. At a lower temperature the moisture in the air will give a milky and cloudy appearance to the varnish. On the other hand, at the higher temperature the moisture is not precipitated until the alcohol of the varnish has sufficiently evaporated to leave a thin smooth film of shellac. The durability and gloss are dependent on this.

The Blind Man's Lantern.

A blind man in Khoosa (a Caucasian village) came back from the river one night bringing a pitcher of water and carrying in his hand a lighted lantern. Some one meeting him said: "You're blind. It's all the same to you whether it's day or night. Of what use to you is a lantern?" "I don't carry the lantern in order to see the road," replied the blind man, "but to keep some fool like you from running against me and breaking my pitcher."

His Peers.

"Pa, what does it mean to be tried by a jury of one's peers?"

"It means, my son, that a man is to be tried by a jury composed of men who are his equals or on an equality with him, so that they will have no prejudice against him."

"Then, pa, I s'pose you'd have to be tried by a jury of baldheaded men."
